A Story About the 2nd American Revolution

by The Famished Patriot

NO. 4

I Chronicles 12:32

DECEMBER 2019

1. PRIZE FOR THE BEST STORYTELLER GOES TO ...

As you can see above, the subtitle of Understanding the Times is “A Story About the 2nd American Revolution.”

In the story of the original American Revolution, reports vary as to what percentage of colonists supported the break with Great Britain and what percentage did not. At the outset of the struggle, the numbers looked like this:

- British Loyalists ranged from 20% to 35%.
- Supporters ranged from 30% to 45%.
- The balance of colonists remained on the fence.

As the story unfolded (1765-1781), support for our break with Britain slowly gained in popularity. What precipitated the gradual shift?

It's simple. As the Revolution's storytellers gained in influence, support for the bold break with Britain increased. In issue no. 2, article 5 of Understanding the Times, the reader will find a very brief synopsis of the Revolutionary War era pamphleteers.

“Weary of the oppressive means and methods of the British king and his army's occupation of their towns and cities, colonists stepped up, bravely publishing pamphlets to make their thoughts known to the public. Yearning for a preservation of the liberty they had come to treasure, they fought with their pens.”

Thus, the gradual shift in support was due, in large part, to pamphleteers like Thomas Paine who authored Common Sense, adding his words to words coming from the fiery, pastoral pulpits and the other impassioned patriotic pamphleteers along America's East Coast. Slowly, the tide began to turn.

One-by-one, over the course of 16 years, liberty's messengers and their messages slowly changed the narrative in the late 18th century battle for America's story. The long-held story of “we are British colonies” became supplanted with the new story of “life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.”

In our own, present-day story, the percentages of Americans weighing in on either side are likewise hard to project. At this hour, we are in the midst of war. But unlike wars of the past, ours is a war to which multitudes are completely oblivious. Millions of Americans—even Christians—see our internal conflict only through the eyes of politics and therefore do not see the division in our country is actually a war for the long-term control of America.

Those of us who have been “red-pilled” (see issue no. 3, article 1.) are gaining “understanding” every day. Each of us, in our own unique way, have “entered the story.” In fact, we have joined the ranks of the storytellers. As noted in issue no. 1, article 1., Q refers to this shift in storytelling by reminding us that we “are the news now.”

Nothing to See Here
You are the news now.

For generations, those who have been providing us the news have been managed and directed by a small cadre of “Deep State” operators who set out over 60 years ago to establish and control the American news narrative. At the heart of this work we find the corrupted CIA and their program known as Operation Mockingbird (https://cutt.ly/eeRpILS) which you can read more about in issue 3, article 3.

With these things in mind, consider this Native American proverb:

“Those who tell the stories rule the world.”

As the mainstream media’s credibility continues to unravel before our eyes, the latest efforts by the Democrats in the House of Representatives is to keep the “Trump is a criminal” story alive.

Looking back, the story of the “Stormy Daniels affair” ultimately provided little more than sad revelations about the crooked and now prison-bound attorney, Michael Avennati.

The “Judge Kavanaugh is a rapist” story revealed the desperation of the leftists as they sought to destroy an innocent man’s reputation in order to keep him off of the Supreme Court.

The “Trump colluded with the Russians” story seemed promising at first, but it’s offspring, the “Mueller Investigation” story turned up dead on arrival.

2. SUMMARIZING & ENHANCING... IN SIMPLER TERMS.

So, let’s take a moment to revisit the highlights and key elements of the story told above.

The First American Revolution

- A tiny band of colonists standing up against the most powerful nation in the world.
- In the early years of our break with Britain, support for the patriot cause among the colonists wavered and wobbled.
- Political theorist Thomas Paine threw fuel on the fires of freedom with his small booklet titled Common Sense.
- Pastor’s pulpits and patriots’ pamphlets continued to feed American colonists on the story of freedom.
- With the hard work of everyday storytellers and brave, patriot soldiers, support for the patriot cause grew, the British surrendered, and the nations of the world began to recognize us as the new “kid” on the block.

The Second American Revolution

- An ever-expanding band of patriotic Americans, awakened to the fact that their country has been stolen from them, rise up, and aided by a mysterious figure named Q, begin to roll out the story of the second American Revolution.
- In the first American Revolution, the patriots’ story prevailed. But whose story will prevail in the second American Revolution?
- Their Story # 1: “Only big government and the highly educated and wealthy elite can take care of us ‘little’ people.” ...# 2: “Trump is a really, really bad guy and a threat to our democracy.”
- Our Story: “Small, self-government, liberty and civil rights for all.”

Two American revolutions. Alike in many ways. Different in many more ways.

Our history began with “We the People” in charge. Over time, others began to slowly, quietly, methodically, stealthily gain control over our lives. That is our story, and we, Patriots, are charged with shouting it from the rooftops!

“YOU ARE THE NEWS NOW.” Q.

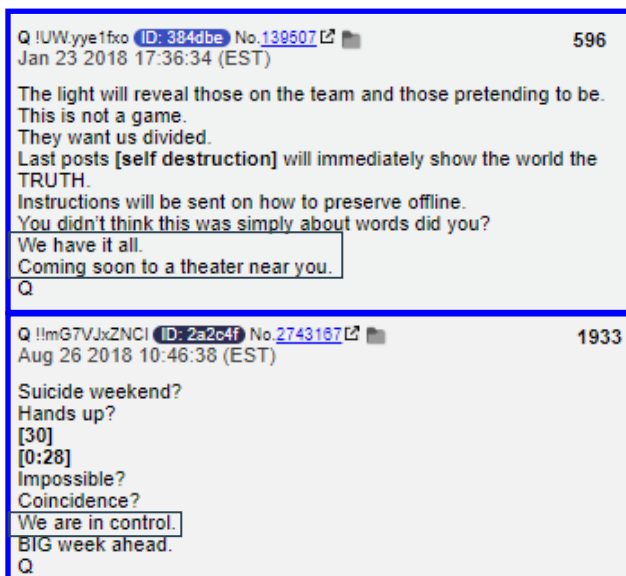

3. TRUST THE PLAN/ENJOY THE SHOW

In issue no. 1, article 6 the Understanding the Times newsletter introduced Q's often-uttered phrase, "Trust the plan." Yes, our leaders—the good guys—have an amazing plan for victory and it is working.

Likewise, also in issue no. 1, this time in article 10, we introduced Q's popular admonishment known as "Enjoy the Show." There is a story going on here. It is happening right in front of us and if we choose, we can actually watch it unfold in real time.

Not long after Q got rolling, the phrase "we have it all" appeared on the Q board for the first time. This message appeared on January 23, 2018. Immediately following that phrase we read "Coming soon to a theater near you." To date, that same phrase ("we have it all") has shown up eight times on Q's board. Could this possibly mean that the good guys (White Hats) have had evidence against those who were trying to destroy Donald Trump from the very beginning? And perhaps evidence of crimes committed even before Trump showed up on the scene? What if ...?

In a similar fashion, it has been four times so far that Q has assured us in his many drops that the good guys are in charge. Q writes, "We are in control."

"We have it all, We are in control, Enjoy the show, Coming soon to a theater near you." With these ideas in mind, let's go to the storyboard and drop in on a few of the most interesting scenes in the first three years of our president's first term.

Q SAYS, "TRUST THE PLAN AND ENJOY THE SHOW."

Wait... if there truly is a master plan, and the story generated by this plan is masterfully written, what then might be the optimum goals for the Trump/Q Team to accomplish in this first act of the story? ... Read on.

TAKE AWAY + ...

Leftist American Political Progressives have held power and control over America for many decades. Many on the Republican side are/were also a part of this secret conspiracy of control that has held Americans captive for a long, long time.

But now, with Trump and his team in control, this masterful, covert criminal enterprise is about to come crashing down upon the heads of the conniving, criminal overlords who have fooled us so well for so long.

Yes, the crimes of these very, very bad people, are coming into view. And, considering how long the deceivers have held us captive, the exposure of their wicked deeds has happened very quickly.

Consider how proficiently the Deep State kept us all in the dark. Now, with the five story components evaluated above, take some time to ponder just how quickly these brilliant, Deep State manipulators have been turned into panicked, sloppy, blubbering fools, scrambling to keep their heinous crimes hidden.

In all five cases enumerated above, the Deep State players lost “bigly.” Is this why Q said “ENJOY THE SHOW?”

And when was it that Q first offered this word of encouragement? We read of it for the very first time in Q Post number 4, dated October 29, 2017. What is unique about this date? It is the day after Q first started posting (10.28.2017).

So, pretty much from the very introduction of Q into the equation, we have been party to the “party” that is going on right before our eyes. And those who have been paying the closest attention to Q have spared themselves a great deal of anxiety.

Artfully, skillfully, brilliantly, Trump and Q achieved their initial goals in fairly short order:

1. Expose the “Fake News” media.
2. Expose the criminal mind of the left.
3. Bring forth actual criminal evidence - OIG.
4. Lay the foundation for bigger revelations.
5. Lay the groundwork for a Great Awakening.

Take some time to ponder and reflect on the meaning of what you have just read. Who are the *story*tellers now?

“WE HAVE IT ALL.”

“WE ARE IN CONTROL”

“ENJOY THE SHOW”

“COMING SOON TO A THEATER NEAR YOU.”

4. DID GOD PLAN THIS? DID GOD SAY THAT?

“For the Lord GOD does nothing without revealing his secret to his servants the prophets.”

Amos 3:7

1. In April of 2011, retired Orlando, Florida fireman, Mark Taylor, after several years of wrestling with severe medical issues and a long battle with depression, received a prophetic message from the Lord. It is titled “Commander in Chief” and it came to pass on Jan. 20, 2017 when Donald J. Trump was sworn into office as the 45th president of the United States.

The “Commander in Chief” prophecy did not only address the election/inauguration of Donald J. Trump. It also contained several other elements.

Taylor’s prophecy references how Trump’s enemies had stolen from the American people. It also “hits the nail on the head” when it proclaims that his enemies would fear him because he knew all of their “tricks and schemes.”

Taylor’s prophecy also references Israel and how America’s then-broken relationship with Israel would be restored.

It declares that Trump’s word will be respected throughout the world because the world will see that he is a man who keeps his word.

Trump’s amazing ability to allow his accuser’s accusations to roll right off of his back is also noted.

Taylor has received and put into writing several other prophetic messages which will not be discussed here but which can be read at the link provided below.

2. Thirteen days prior to the November 8, 2016 election, Dr. Lance Wallnau appeared on the Jim Bakker Show to introduce his latest book, God’s Chaos Candidate: Donald J. Trump and the American Unraveling. Bear in mind that the election had yet to occur and that Donald J. Trump had yet to be sworn in. That moment would not come until 84 days later, on January 20, 2017.

After a brief introduction, Dr. Wallnau stepped up to the lectern and began to tell the story of how the Holy Spirit pressed upon him to pen and publish the book noted above.

In the balance of the video, Wallnau lays out how we lost our nation and what we must do to get it back.

Toward the end of Wallnau’s “Chaos Candidate” book, on page 155 to be precise, we are told the following:

“The future of this nation is in the hands of the church—
the people of God.
That’s you!”

2. In Understanding the Times, issue no. 3, article 5, the story is told of how, in October of 2016, God led Dutch Sheets and his 13-member team on an East Coast adventure to revisit and re-establish our Christian forbears’ covenantal commitments to God. Seven significant locations were selected and the group made their rounds, praying over each location and asking God to remember His covenant with our brothers and sisters from another era. Their work was dubbed, “Retracing America’s Covenant Roots.”

A few months prior to the “Retracing America’s Covenant Roots,” in February of 2016, Dutch and two friends gathered to pray outside of the White House. The sun had just set and winter's late afternoon dusk had settled in.

As they began to pray, Dutch noticed a lone figure, off in the distance, beginning to make his way toward them.

As he told this story to a full crowd of worshipers, he confessed his irritation with what he believed to be an untimely interruption by an old homeless man. He feared that an unwanted disruption would soon occur.

But as the figure drew near, Dutch began to sense that he was about to encounter, not a homeless man, but rather an angel.

The three stood and watched the "man" approach. And then something very unexpected occurred. Dutch and his prayer partners heard the word "mercy." The mysterious figure did not stop, but walked straight past them, and as he passed he uttered the word "mercy" five more times.

"Mercy, mercy, mercy, mercy, mercy, mercy."

The angelic figure just kept walking until he disappeared from sight.

A few weeks later, an intercessor shared with Dutch a dream about him that she had received from the Lord. "In the dream," she said, "you kept repeating, 'I have tapped into a root of mercy.'"

Later that year, as Dutch tells it, a trusted friend and pastor shared a dream the he had about Dutch. He explained how he was watching Dutch's "Appeal to Heaven" message in an online video. While watching, the pastor saw an image of John Knox, the 16th century Scottish reformer, appear on the screen behind Dutch.

In case you were not aware, John Knox is known for his ceaseless prayer over his native country, Scotland. Even while behind prison bars, his prayers continued: "Give me Scotland 'ere I die."

Back to the video and the dream. Then, all around Dutch, as he stood and prayed for God's mercy to fall on America, the pastor friend began to see coins dropping. In the dream, the coins kept falling until Dutch was standing ankle deep in coins, each one bearing the word "MERCY." In the days that followed, Dutch began to characterize mercy as God's currency.

With these supernatural accounts in mind, it is important to note that around 2005, Dutch began to sense that God had called and prepared him to be "a prophet to America." The bulk of his ministry focus in the years since has been on praying and working toward restoring our nation to it's original role amongst the nations in the world. That mission was, and will be again, to carry the message of salvation, and the gospel of the kingdom, to the four corners of the world.

Much of Dutch Sheets' work in the years since has focused on turning our nation back to God so that we can get refocused on our job described above.

4. The Scriptures tell us (Ephesians 4:10-12) that when Christ ascended on high, He left his church with five gifts: apostle, prophet, evangelist, pastor and teacher. We should all be familiar with the evangelist, the pastor and the teacher. But to many of us, the apostle and the prophet are perplexing figures.

The names and links below will lead you, Dear Reader, to more respected prophetic voices that have added vision and understanding to the unfolding story of our times. As you explore these fellow saints and their work, you are encouraged to read, listen, research and contemplate the two questions raised in the title to this article (No. 4 above)—

"Did God plan this? Did God say that?"

5. PREPARE THE WAY

Although he appeared in the New Testament, John the Baptist is often characterized as the last of the Old Testament prophets. “But,” we ask, “should he not be included in with the New Testament prophets found in Ephesians 4:11 as noted above?”

Well, technically, John the Baptist does not appear in the Church era because when he arrived on the scene, the Church had yet to be born. And because of Herod’s daughter’s wish, John was not able to stick around to witness the Church’s birth.

John the Baptist is brought into our story because he was a forerunner, an announcer, one sent to lay in the groundwork for the coming Messiah. And in some ways he can serve as a prototype of the prophets’ work in our time.

John the Baptist was sent by God to prepare the way for Jesus Christ, the Son of God who, as the book of Isaiah tells us in chapter 40, would be exalting valleys, bringing down mountains, making crooked things straight and turning the rough places into a plain.

This, said God through his prophet Isaiah, is what the Messiah’s work would look like. And John’s message was one of making ready for the Messiah’s arrival by means of repentance. “Repent, for the kingdom of heaven is at hand,” he said.

Repentance would require a change in direction, a deliberate choice to reset our focus and objectives in life, a need to make God our center instead of our own selfish and worldly desires.

John spoke God’s admonitions into his nation, telling them that God’s kingdom (His rule, His government) was on it’s way. Prepare yourself!

These days, we do not hear much about God’s prophets within His Church. Is that because they no longer exist? Or is it because we are just not paying attention?

What we can learn from both the Old Testament prophets and the final Old Testament prophet is that often, before God sets out to do something big, he will send out forerunners to announce what He is about to do.

We have many examples to choose from. Consider Noah, not typically classified as a prophet, but certainly doing the work of one, warning his neighbors as he set about his work building the ark.

Elijah was sent as a prophet to those in the wicked era of King Ahab and his Baal worshiping wife, Jezebel.

Jeremiah was sent to the nation of Judah, warning them of God’s pending judgment.

Many more examples could easily be drawn, examples which reveal God’s ways. Yes, God often tells us about big things that He has planned. After all, the Old Testament contains fifteen prophets who have their names on books within the Bible. And then of course we have Moses, the Judges, Samuel, Kings & Chronicles, and the Psalms.

Most of the news of “big things coming” in the Old Testament is about “bad” news. But on the positive side of God preparing us for “big things coming,” we must not overlook the multiple references in the Old Testament—though sometimes cryptic—of the coming Messiah.

Throughout history God has sent forerunners to alert His people in order to get them ready for the next big thing He is going to do.

Mark Taylor, Lance Wallnau, Dutch Sheets and many others in our day could easily be considered God’s prophetic spokespeople for our times. They are our generation’s forerunners.

The question is, are we paying attention? Are we connecting the dots?

Sadly, many of us have not been properly prepared. We don’t know who to trust. We don’t know where to look. And in many cases, we don’t even know that there are places to look.

We must also be very wise, very discerning, very careful to sift and sort and weigh what we hear.

Let us all take time to consider that, from the many, many stories in the Scriptures, we can learn God’s ways. It is not inconceivable that God is reaching out to us in these tumultuous times to give us foresight and wisdom and understanding about who and where we are in His bigger plans.

Let us not lose sight of God’s word to us through the prophet, Joel. God said,

“And it shall come to pass afterward, that I will pour out my Spirit on all flesh; your sons and your daughters shall prophesy, your old men shall dream dreams, and your young men shall see visions.”

Joel 2:28 ESV

It would appear to this Famished Patriot that our Lord is doing just that!

5. MERCY, MERCY, MERCY, MERCY, MERCY, MERCY.

We live in an era of mercy. Or, as Dutch Sheets has so aptly explained it, mercy is the new currency.

For the last two or three generations, America has been in decline. A rapid acceleration began in 2009.

We now murder our unwanted unborn in their mother’s womb. Some call abortion a “sacred right,” associating the deed with a religious act.

Thanks to the sexual revolution of the late sixties and early seventies, fornication is now accepted as normal behavior in our land. The traditional marriage covenant is fading away into the annals of history.

Dysfunctional is, in many, many cases, the fitting description of the modern American family. Fatherhood is nearly decimated. The American male has, on the whole, been emasculated.

Same sex attraction has been “rubber-stamped” as a “lifestyle choice” to be boldly pursued. And “gender confusion” is now the up-and-coming cultural “darling” of our times.

Yet despite these radical shifts in American culture, the quick rise of godlessness and its wicked fruit, America still stands. This is mercy on display.

6. BACK TO THE STORY

We began issue No. 4 by comparing the stories of the 1st and 2nd American Revolutions. Both are stories about America’s fight for liberty and the right to self-government. Both involve everyday citizens battling power-hungry, wealthy elites who do not have any interest in yielding up their power and control.

In the story of the 1st American Revolution we learned that over time, the patriot storytellers slowly won the allegiance of the loyalists.

In the story of the 2nd American Revolution—a story which is still being written—we have learned that in the midst of a very fierce battle for the TRUTH, well laid plans for victory are coming into view.

In the examination of this story, we looked first to the Q team, President Trump and the patriots working with them. As a side note, in certain circles, the patriots are referred to as Anons.

As noted earlier, Q has often reminded us of the following:

- “We have it all.”
- “We are in control.”
- “Enjoy the show.”
- “Coming soon to a theater near you.”

And for those tuned in, the show has been both fascinating to watch and quite encouraging.

Secondly, we introduced two new prophetic voices into the mix. The prophetic voices of Lance Wallnau and Mark Taylor were collected together and, in this issue, blended with the voice of the previously introduced Dutch Sheets (Issue 3, article 5). Also, more of Dutch’s story came to light here, in Issue 4. If you will recall, in Issue 3 the story of Dutch’s “Retracing America’s Covenant Roots,” laid out seven historical locations in America’s founding history and the activities of reclaiming America’s covenantal relationship with our Lord. In this Issue, we have been introduced to “the currency of mercy” in God’s plan.

Q arrived on the scene to activate every day citizens to dig and learn and report. Q characterizes this patriotic quest for truth and understanding by commissioning us with the phrase, “You are the news now.”

But Q, Trump, and the Anon patriots are not the source of mercy. No, our 2nd American Revolution began in heaven.

As we are now beginning to understand, the story of our 2nd American Revolution came into view when America’s intercessory prayer warriors stepped onto the scene.

“But wait,” you say. “Just above, you told us that it began in heaven.”

Both are true. God is always the initiator. He is the One who inspires us to pray. He issues the call for action. But the revealing of His call going into action does not usually manifest itself immediately.

Hundreds of thousands (probably millions) of American intercessors have been hard at work for decades, crying out to God for His help.

In the early 2000’s we began to see faint signs indicating that God had heard our cries.

Forerunners like Dutch and Lance and Mark were being set into place. God was training and preparing them. Most Christians had no idea whatsoever what God was about to do.

But a bit of research, coupled with the cognitive process, enables those who want to understand to begin connecting the dots.

Our current American Revolution came as an answer to the prayers of the hidden, the ones praying in secret. But even those very prayers initiated with God Himself.

And if we consider, as many have suggested, that the the birth of Team Q occurred on November 23rd, 1963, the day after John Fitzgerald Kennedy was murdered in Dallas Texas, we can see the hand of God at work over 55 years ago.

Digging, researching, learning and connecting the dots brings much contentment to the soul. The story is becoming clearer with each passing day. The story is glorious, and like those 18th century pamphleteers, we need to learn how to tell it.

“Those who tell the stories rule the world.”
